

There is no better time to get organized than the “back-to-school” season. Even if you left the formal education system long ago, you probably think of September as a time for fresh starts - so why not apply that energetic attitude to even better management of your contact data? As a Contact Boss subscriber, you are obviously committed to best practices for contact database management. Now is the perfect moment to take a closer look at all that Contact Boss offers, as well as the new features in Contact Boss version 1.6.0 which we explain in this newsletter!

We love getting your feedback, so keep sending your comments and suggestions to support@contactboss.com as we make sure that Contact Boss provides the best possible contact database software.

Contact type fields are now customizable -Like we just said, we love getting your feedback, and in response to comments from Contact Boss users it is now possible to add up to three custom fields to the “Contact Type” menu. Currently there are 10 pre-defined contact types available, but we recognize that not all organizations have the same names for contact types , and customization (or renaming) will improve the usability of our top-class contact data management software.

Gone Mobile! Our big news in July 2021 was the official release of our mobile app for subscribers in iOS and Android versions. Be sure to keep this in mind as you make use of your Contact Boss subscription and encourage all users in your organization to download the app!

Ongoing Fixes - We continue to improve Contact Boss, correcting any issues as they are noted and adding minor user interface improvements.

Say Hello! - Have some suggestions or feedback for our Contact Boss team? Why not send your comments to support@contactboss.com. Or share a quick testimonial about the Contact Boss features you find most useful. And be sure to pass on this newsletter to team members who use Contact Boss.

Back to school! If the fall season is putting you in the mood for user training, getting a better understanding of some of our new features or you think it’s time for a refresher of some of the other features, we invite you to set up a session with Contact Boss where we can review all the excellent contact data management features, and answer any specific questions.

Pay it forward -If you are enjoying Contact Boss contact database management solution, please let your friends and colleagues know - we can set up a demo session so they too can learn about the best-in-class, most affordable contact management system available today!
